

... The agile government

Flexible information provisioning

In a world where societal expectations, legislation, and political priorities shift constantly, agility is crucial for public sector organisations. The ability to respond quickly not only determines governmental relevance but also reinforces public and business trust. Sopra Steria delivers solutions that enable governments to make their information provisioning more flexible and scalable, allowing policies and services to be implemented faster.

The challenge: Complexity in public administration

Public institutions face major challenges in an increasingly dynamic and complex society:

- Rapid implementation of new legislation, such as changes in subsidies or tax measures.
- Outdated systems that are too rigid to adapt swiftly.
- Rising citizen and business expectations for efficient and accessible services.
- Siloed systems and fragmented data, hampering responsiveness.

The solution: Composable architecture and connected data

Composable architecture empowers public organisations to remain agile by adapting to evolving societal, technological, and organisational demands. It offers a framework where flexibility is key, enabling swift and efficient responses to emerging opportunities and challenges.

1. Modular IT components: Easily adjusted or replaced building blocks.
2. Streamlined information flows: Structured, connected data and rules that enable rapid change implementation.
3. Fast deployment: New features developed iteratively and agilely, with minimal disruption to existing operations.

Sopra Steria provides a modular platform that lays a solid foundation for a future-proof IT infrastructure.

Tangible benefits

Adopting a modular IT architecture delivers real advantages for public organisations:

- Faster policy execution: From years to weeks, even days.
- Reduced complexity: Only update what matters—no need to rebuild entire systems.
- Greater control: Improved insights into processes, regulations, and data flows.
- Scalability: IT infrastructure that grows with your organisation.

Why Sopra Steria?

With extensive experience in public sector digitalisation, Sopra Steria combines technological expertise with deep knowledge of government processes. We offer:

- Tailored collaboration: Beyond the supplier role, a shared responsibility.
- Holistic approach: Integrating IT, processes, and regulation.
- Controlled transformation: Agile improvements without disrupting operations.

Take the first step toward agility

Prepare your organisation for rapid societal and technological change. Let us support you with a future-ready strategy. Get in touch via our contact form and discover what's possible.